

RISK DISCLOSURE

1. General Risk Disclaimer:

Trading Contracts for Difference (CFDs) and other similar financial products offered by BerryPax carry a high degree of risk and complexity, particularly due to the use of leverage. It is crucial that you fully understand the mechanics of these products before engaging in any transactions. Additionally, you should evaluate whether you are willing and financially able to accept the risk of losing your entire invested capital.

2. Trading Risks:

Engaging in trading with BerryPax products may lead to both substantial gains and losses, even when following specific recommendations. The use of leverage can amplify the risks associated with trading, potentially causing losses that exceed the amount of the initial deposit.

Margin Calls: Margin calls may occur unexpectedly, especially during periods of heightened market volatility, requiring immediate action to prevent position liquidation and any resulting shortfall.

Market Fluctuations: Market values can experience significant volatility, especially during periods of economic instability or heightened market activity, which may negatively affect leveraged positions.

3. Acknowledgment of Risks:

By engaging in trading activities with BerryPax, you acknowledge and accept the inherent risks involved. It is vital to carefully assess whether trading with leveraged products aligns with your financial situation and risk tolerance. We recommend seeking independent financial advice before participating in any trading activity.
